THE INTRODUCTION

It's 2125.

You stand outside of a party, up on a hill with a view of the village below. You notice your older brother and his friends sneak off into a nearby field to mess with a Helper F-2, a farm bot that shows up at night to supplement the human day-labor. You watch them fail to tip it over. After a few shoves, you notice one of its legs spark blue lights. You quit the party and head down there to make sure the drunks don't get hurt. On your walk over, your brother's friends run past you giggling. "He is going to be in so much trouble!" they say, laughing. You laugh along and continue to the field to get him. When you arrive, a large Buster T-7 stands over your brother, who is laying facedown on the ground. The robot yells at him, "Destruction of robotic equipment is prohibited." Your brother yells unintelligible drunk babel at it and tries to get up. The robot takes this as a threat and pushes its glowing laser arm into your brother's back and through his stomach. The bot lifts him off the ground and tosses him to the side. It sees you approaching and leaves with the damaged Helper F-2. You rush to your brother and apply pressure to his wound. But the blood won't stop leaking out.

You scream for help.

Your brother spits up blood and tries to catch his breath. He looks at you with his pale face, scared. "We should have killed those bastards a long time ago." You debate with yourself, to run and get help before he bleeds out. "No gods, No masters." he says as he gasps for air, clenching his stomach. You tell him you have to leave, to get help. He grabs your shirt and begs you to stay. "Don't leave me alone. It'll be ok. Everything is fine. This is just a bad dream." You get blood in your eyes as you wipe away the tears. You tell him it's not a dream. His voice grows softer as his soul leaves his body. "You get em' back for me. I'm too tired to fight." are his last words. You hold his body and cry the rest of the night.

The next day is a blur. People tell you how sad they are for your loss. They hold a funeral for him. You dissociate as your brain gets caught in a loop of thoughts, wondering who controls the robots. You ask, but no one answers you.

You remember the rumors of a god as you fall asleep. You wonder how true they are, and, if so, is he still around? You wake up at dawn. You are completely dissociated from your body. On autopilot, it gets itself up and grabs your bag with a few essentials. As you walk to the edge of the village forest, it dawns on you what your body is doing:

The background of the page is filled with various red scribbles, lines, and marks. Some resemble stylized eyes or faces, while others are abstract, swirling lines. These elements are scattered across the white background, creating a chaotic and intense visual field.

THE BASICS OF PLAY

STRUCTURE:

This is a solo-first analog adventure game. You'll draw a map while exploring the wilderness and surviving dangerous situations. You're all alone out there, but this guide should help you along the way.

MATERIALS TO PLAY:

2x D20 (20-Sided Dice)

4x D6 (6-Sided Dice)

1x Map (pg.48)

1x Character Sheet (pg.49)

1x Pen/Pencil

SETUP:

Place both of your D20 above the HEALTH and ENERGY section of your character sheet. Set both to 10.

Mark your character sheet with 3x Meal Bars.

The game begins on any tile in row 01 on the map. Face the map so the compass points north.

Begin Day 01 by rolling for the Terrain.

WIN CONDITION:

Kill THE GOD.

MULTIPLAYER:

You can play with any number of players. Divide tasks up and make decisions as a group to control the one main character.

DEATH:

If you ever hit 0 HP, you die.
To continue...go to pg.53.

THE CALENDAR:

Keep track of the days on your character sheet to follow along with the story. The bold days indicate big story events. (pg.32)

TOP SECRET!

Scan the code to get access to the digital files of MIRU I.

STEPS IN A TURN:

Most turns are pretty straight forward. (A-G) Occasionally you may backtrack or visit a tile that already has something on it. Reference this section on those days if you're unsure of what to do.

- B. Roll 1x D6 to determine the terrain.

- D. Roll 2x D6 to determine the event.

- F. Survive the event.

- H. Find the icon's event.

THE MONEY OF MIRU:

A billionaire tried to create a digital currency in the 2040s. He promoted it by printing a large amount of physical gold coins that represented the digital money, but it just confused everyone. Now they're mostly traded with collectors, often with outsiders, who brave the dangerous wilderness. Everyone calls these coins Bitlihs or BITS for short. This is their symbol: ₪

- A-B
Roll 1 on step B? F-G
Roll 2-6 on step B? C-D-E-F-G

- ### ■ ■ ■ Any Tile with a Village? A-H-F-G

CHALLENGE MODE

EXPLORING THE MAP

On this adventure, you are hunting a god. But will you be ready if you find him? Exploring outside of your village is new to you. Take your time. The world will reveal itself as you embark on this journey one tile at a time.

TERRAIN:

At the beginning of every day where you step on a new tile, you will roll 1x D6 to determine the Terrain you've stumbled upon.

RESULTS:

1 - Small Injury (pg.11)

2 - The Forest (pg.12)

3 - The Mountains (pg.16)

4 - The Grasslands (pg.20)

5 - The Desert (pg.24)

6 - The Swamp (pg.28)

PLAYER TIP!

Speed up your dice rolling for the day by rolling 4x D6 at once. Then divide them like so:

1x : Terrain 1x : Clarity
2x : Event

EVENTS:

After you know the Terrain, roll 2x D6 to see what type of event occurs. The sum determines the category of the event. You could discover any of the following:

Ruins - Etches of the past peek through a century of weather.

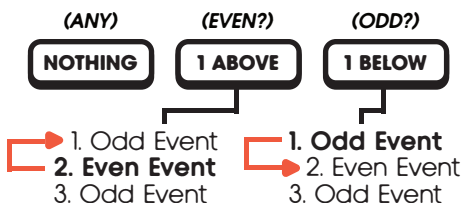

Encounters - Danger is usually close by, be on guard.

Villages - Small communities of people live just like your people.

Impassable - Some areas are just not possible for you to traverse.

Nothing - Occasionally, although rarely, nothing interesting happens.

Ruins & Encounters require a Clarity check. You'll roll 1x D6 to see what you discover. Ruins & Encounters do not repeat. Instead, you can pick one option based on what you rolled to clarify a Ruins or Encounter:

HOW TO MARK YOUR MAP:

Before you end each day, you should update your map and journal, so you don't lose track of the happenings around you. Here are some suggested tiles you can use to create a map of your adventure.

FOREST

SWAMP

DIRECTIONS:

Sometimes you will be asked to mark your map with information on tiles in certain directions. Use this compass as a guide.

If a location or direction isn't accessible for some reason, use this priority compass to determine the next possible option. Zero is where the object of focus is located.

MAP ICONS:

You will discover many interesting things you'll want to remember the location of as you explore.

Use these icons to mark your map.

MELEE: Close encounters are risky, but, if paired with the right Tech Skill, you can do some serious damage to your enemies.

The weapon you find on Day 03 does not fit in either of these categories.

COMBAT:

Combat is turn-based.
Enemies always go first.

ATK - DEF = Damage

After the enemy rolls 1x D6 to determine their attack, their turn ends. Reference their combat card for stats.

On your turn you can choose any one of the following actions:

BASIC ATTACK

TECH SKILL

ESCAPE

If you survive combat, roll 1x D6 to search the nearby area for any interesting items. Reference the enemy's combat card and pg.10 for Rewards.

STATUS EFFECTS:

Some of your attacks will have an extra effect during combat. These effects last the whole fight.

BURN: Enemy takes X Damage at the beginning of their turn. The Burn effect stacks up to 3 Burn.

STUN: At the beginning of the enemy's turn, roll X D6. If you roll a 4, the enemy skips their turn. The Stun effect stacks up to 3 Stun.

PLAYER TIP!

Reference the Item Catalog on pg.52-53 for details on items and skills you find along your journey!

BASIC ATTACK

Use any available weapon on you to attack the enemy. Basic Attacks always hit the enemy. Simply apply combat math.

TECH SKILL

These are skills you'll learn along your journey. They let you attack the enemy with extra power and effects. Tech Skills require training to improve accuracy & the right type of weapon to hit the enemy.

HOW TO USE SKILLS:

During combat, roll 1x D6 for each Tech Skill you know (up to 3 dice). If one is equal to or less than the current level of that tech skill: You level up that skill and hit the enemy. Otherwise you miss and your turn ends.

ESCAPE

Attempt to run away from the fight for -2 EP. Roll 1x D6 and score higher than the enemy's ESC number to succeed. If you manage to escape, move to a different tile. The enemy stays on the tile without healing.

Failure

Rolled Even:
Enemy has +1 ATK for 1 turn.

Rolled Odd:
Can't escape next turn.

Success

Rolled Even:
Skip Eating and Sleeping this day.

Rolled Odd:

01 SMALL INJURY

Some days are harder than others.

While looking around the area, you hurt yourself and take -2 HP in damage. You remain on the same tile and nurse your wounds. You eat and sleep like usual if you're able to. Tomorrow will be a new day for you to try again. Watch your steps next time, you delicate human.

PLAYER TIP!

You can keep track of your small injury days on your character sheet.

NIGHT OF YOUR 3rd INJURY ▶

You limp through a dark forest. The moonlight is dim and unsettling tonight. You hear a branch snap behind you and you freeze in place. You slowly turn around to see the body of your brother dragging itself closer to you. His face has four eyes and they glow white as he spits up blood and calls for you to help him.

Frozen in fear, you try and talk to him but nothing comes out. While you strain to say something, you wake up.

You're ok. It was just a nightmare. You shake off the fear and fall back asleep. When you wake up in the morning you have 10 HP and 10 EP. You're missing half of your Bitliths and any duplicate items that aren't food. Bizarre.

02 THE FOREST

THE TREES ARE ANCIENT

Everything was abandoned in the 2050s. The parking lots, suburbs, and malls of the past have been overtaken by nature. Time has nearly erased the old world. As you walk along the trees, you can't help but feel like you're being watched...by everything.

EVENTS: (2x D6)

2: NOTHING or (pg.46)

The forest is usually full of danger, but not today. You find 3x Fruit.

3-5: VILLAGE (pg.36)

A small community of nice folks.

6-8: RUINS (1xD6)

The remains of an old city, now buried in thick vegetation.

9-11: ENCOUNTERS (1xD6)

You can feel the presence of something dangerous lurking in the shadows, waiting to pounce.

12: IMPASSABLE

The vegetation is too thick to get through. Best to find another way around. Mark this tile as impassable. Backtrack to camp and start the day over.

RUINS:

R1. TOWER OF SLEEPERS

You stumble upon a skyscraper in the middle of the woods. The glass building looms tall over the forest. As you walk into the lobby, you hear a low hum come from behind a door with high voltage signage. You try and open it, but the door is locked. You explore a few floors above and find hundreds of dried-up humans in air-tight metal pods. The pods light up as you walk by them. A brochure in the hallway promises eternal life. You wonder if those people still exist somewhere. You find 1x Sleeper's Leather Jacket from a closet and 2 Bitliths behind the service counter. You camp out in the lobby and have a dream about falling into a backyard pool. As you sink to the bottom, the silhouette of a woman in a dress floats above you.

R2. THE ABANDONED FACTORY

An explosion occurred here. Inside are rows of unfinished Helper F-2s. In the back office, you find the remains of two humans holding rusty guns. Their blood still paints the wall behind them, along with the bullet holes that took them out. As you leave the factory, you take 2x Spare Parts from the assembly line.

R3. AN OLD GAS STATION

Rusty cars covered in vines sit in front of a gas station. Inside you find a bag of chips that expired back in '45. You open the bag and try one. Unsurprisingly, they're stale. There's still a hot dog out on display that rotates a few minutes a day because of the store's solar panel. You find 2 Bitliths behind the register.

R4. THE BRUTALIST CHURCH

Nearly invisible among the trees, you discover a concrete building with a bold organic shape. The stained glass windows have all been shattered. Nature has crawled inside, covering the pews and walls with vines and greenery. You notice a donation bowl holding 4 Bitliths.

Do you take the offering?

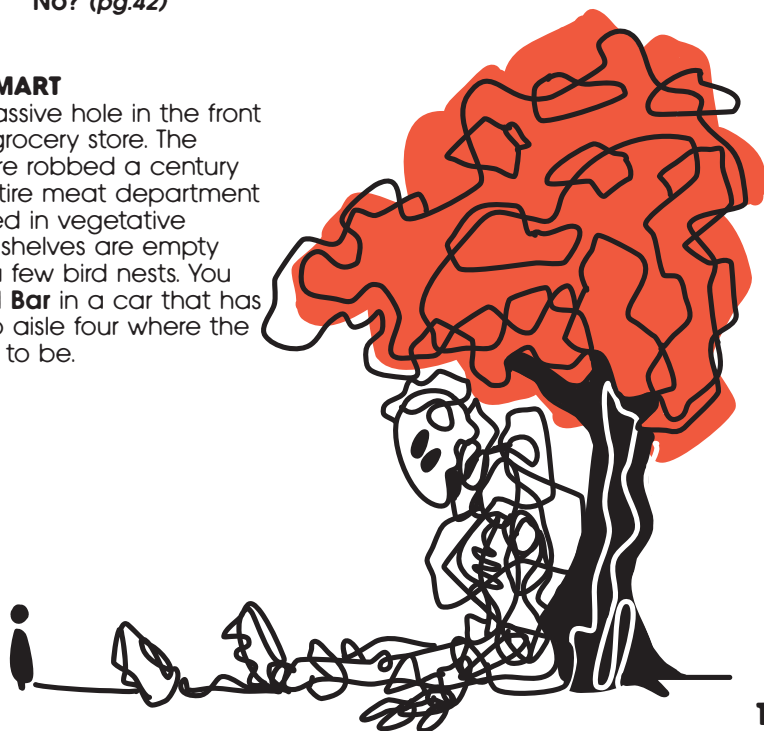

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.42)

R5. RUSTY MART

There's a massive hole in the front of a chain grocery store. The registers were robbed a century ago. The entire meat department has exploded in vegetative growth. The shelves are empty except for a few bird nests. You find 1x Meal Bar in a car that has crashed into aisle four where the beans used to be.

R6. THE REMAINS OF A GOD

Covered in rust, a giant humanoid machine lays between the trees. Its face has four eyes. It looks as if it had sat beneath the trees for a nap and didn't wake up. You touch it to see if it'll move, but the only thing that happens is its toe falls off. You take 3x Spare Parts from it and keep moving. How can something as small as you ever stand a chance at taking on something as big as a god?

ENCOUNTERS:

E1. THE PATH MOST TRAVELED

You spend all morning following a dirt trail through the dark woods. The tracks you see on the ground appear to come from bots that travel from village to village. A

Buster T-7 crawls out from behind a tree and unfolds its laser arm from its body. "We can not allow you to sabotage our work".

You push your way through the thick brush, disturbing a bird nest. As they fly away, your eyes follow. The sun peaks through the tree tops, blinding you a bit. You take a few steps forward and walk into a Buster T-5. It whips around and hits you.

As you trek your way through the woods, trying to stay off bot-made paths, you find a clearing. There are four men in dark robes holding candles, praying to a statue of a woman with four eyes. They turn around ready for a fight. You assure them you are just passing through and didn't see anything. One of them asks "Do you believe in the one true god, Alora?"

What do you tell him?

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.42)

E4. CAUGHT IN THE ACT

You spend most of the afternoon following a small stream through the dark woods. You notice fresh tracks in some mud and follow them to see a Helper F-2 planting seeds in a nearby clearing. It hears your steps, pauses what it's doing, and looks up at you.

Do you attack it?

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.42)

E5. YOU'RE GOING TO DIE

The treetops block out most of the sun, creating a dark and spooky vibe in the woods. You feel like something is watching you. You're anxious and ready for a Mountain Lion to attack you, when you hear someone say "Yo!" She swings down from a tree branch. She's wrapped from head to toe in a black cloth, like a goth mummy. "What are you doing out here?" she asks. You tell her about your brother. She shakes her head in disappointment. "You're going to die." There's a weird pause before she continues: "But we're after the same thing. If you happen to find a Radio Tower before me, this is part of the code used to access the controls. Good luck." She vanishes back up into the trees.

03 THE MOUNTAINS

THE HILLS ARE STEEP

Everything feels uphill. The roads of yesterday curve with the hills. Nature was unkind to the landscape, as signs of landslides and falling rocks have made many parts impassable and unstable for any fruitful growth.

EVENTS: (2x D6)

2-3: IMPASSABLE or (pg.44)

The hills are too steep and rocky to cross. Best to find another way around. Mark this tile as impassable. Backtrack to camp and start the day over.

4-5: VILLAGE (pg.36)

Hidden in the hills, aware of the shaken landscape, too stubborn to give up the views.

6-8: RUINS (1xD6)

Remnants of the countryside litter the landscape.

9-12: ENCOUNTERS (1xD6)

Danger hides among the rocky hillside.

RUINS:

R1. AN OLD FARM BUILDING

As you make your way up a steep hill, you find the remains of an old barn. All that's left is its concrete base and the wood columns. A rooster chases you away to protect a small flock of chickens. You find 4x Fruit from a tree down the road.

R2. THE SKI RESORT

You spend all morning hiking up a mountain. At the top you find an old ski resort. You find 3x Meal Bars and 1x Climbing Gloves in the gift shop. You camp here for the night. For some reason, in the morning, the lift outside turns on. You can ride down it if you like. It will take you about 2 tiles South East.

R3. THE COAL MINE

You follow a dirt path up a mountain and discover the remains of an old coal mine. You venture in just for a peek and find a caged elevator. Trapped inside it are a group of skeletons still wearing their uniforms. One of the guys is still holding onto the bars of the elevator. You find 2 Bitliths in his pocket. As you pull them out, you hear a sharp snapping noise and quickly yank your hand back just in time, before the elevator falls down the shaft. You run out of the mine before you cause any more trouble.

R4. AN ALORA OBELISK

As you make your way up an old mountain trail, you find an area marked as a resting stop. There are concrete tables and a rusty metal trash can. Next to that is a tall black rock obelisk with a glowing circle in the middle of it. The closer you get to it, the fuzzier your thoughts get. You take a step forward and put your hand on it. Immediately, the stress of your journey leaves you and you are overwhelmed with peace and happiness. A woman's voice whispers in your mind, "I'm sorry for your pain. Please know I'm watching out for you." After an hour of this wild acid trip you take a step back and keep walking up the trail feeling refreshed and confident. Your HP and EP recover fully to 20. If you visit this place again, the obelisk does nothing.

R5. THE BRUTAL CULT

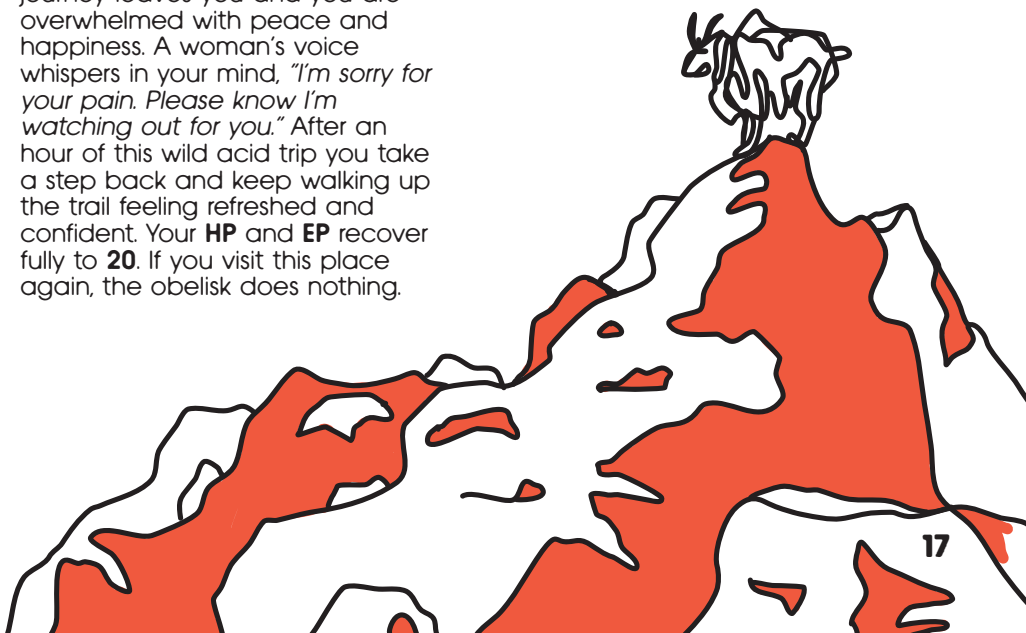

Built into the hillside is a concrete church. The wooden doors have rotted away. Inside are 100+ skeletons sitting in the pews. The stage upfront holds a massive statue of a woman with four eyes and arms. A podium beneath the statue's feet holds a book written in a cryptic barcode language. Nearby is a collection plate with 10 Bitliths in it.

Do you take the offering?

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.42)

R6. FAMILY OF GOATS

The mountain is too steep to climb and this tile is Impassable. As you rest for the day, you watch a family of goats effortlessly walk up the nearly flat mountain side. You find 2x Fruit. You camp here for the night. Start the next day on the previous tile and move from there.

ENCOUNTERS:

E1. ROCKY MOUNTAIN NIGHTMARE

E3. THANK YOU FOR YOUR DONATION

You come upon a small altar at the base of a mountainside. A small concrete statue of a woman with four eyes holds a bowl. In it are 3x Fruits and 5 Bitliths. Before you can even think to take them, 3 hooded men come walking towards you. "A loyal patron, fellas. Are ye a believer?" You say, "Of course." They say "Ah, well may Alora watch over ya." As you turn to leave, your face meets the fist of another hooded man. You black out. You wake up at the east edge of the tile with -5 Bitliths (if you had any) and -3 HP. You camp here for the night. You must go East on your next turn. If you visit this tile again, there are no men and the bowl holds 4x Fruit and 10 Bitliths.

E4. RUNNERS HIGH

As you're walking uphill through the mountains, you see a sign written in a barcode language. You're not sure if it's a warning or trying to tell you something good is up ahead. After thinking about it for a minute, you decide to head back downhill. When you turn around, a small hooded android is behind you. He tries to talk to you, but you only hear an odd static noise come from his mouth. He seems harmless, but you figure, you should probably find a safe spot away from it before it gets too dark. You tell him you can't understand him and you walk away.

You find 2x Fruit and 5x Arrows as you look for a spot to camp.

E5. YOU MEET A GOD HUNTER

As you make your way through a rocky canyon, an arrow flies right past your nose. You freeze. A person completely wrapped in black cloth comes out from behind a nearby rock holding a bow. "Sorry, just trying to grab your attention. Didn't want to make too much noise. I've been following you for a few kilometers now. You are going to die trying, but I thought you should know there is a Radio Tower about 3 tiles North West of here. There's some kind of code we need to turn it off. Good luck." She waves goodbye to you, as if to say, "See you later, friend." As you continue your walk you wonder why it's so bizarre outside of your village.

E6. NATURE HUNTS YOU

You sit on the edge of a rocky hill to take a break from walking for the day. You think about how much your brother would have loved seeing the world outside of your village. Just as you start tearing up, you hear something behind you, breathing heavily. You turn around to see a very upset Grolar Bear has trapped you between it and a very long fall. Only way out is through it.

04 THE GRASSLANDS

THE FIELDS ARE LIVELY

Wild flowers and grass cover the landscape. Butterflies and bees hop from flower to flower. The wind is soft and the deer are unshaken by your presence. There are small signs that a town was here a century ago, but nature has erased most of it off the map.

EVENTS: (2x D6)

2-3: NOTHING or (pg.46)

Nothing of interest on this tile, just butterflies and tall grass. Pass through in peace.

4-5: VILLAGE (pg.36)

These people are living their best lives. Free from the worries you struggle with.

6-8: RUINS (1xD6)

Remnants of a suburban neighborhood, slowly being eaten alive by nature herself.

9-12: ENCOUNTERS (1xD6)

The shadows of this old suburban town hide dark and horrifying terrors. Be on guard.

RUINS:

R1. THE APARTMENT BUILDING

You come upon a small two-story brick building. Most of the doors are locked, except for room number B4. You walk into an apartment that hasn't been touched for 50+ years. You find the remote for a retro flat screen TV and turn it on. It just shows static for a minute and then turns off. You check the kitchen to find 2x Meal Bars. You find 5 Bitliths in a bedroom dresser. In the middle of the night, a large group of bots pass by. A Seeker K-9 looks in your apartment's windows but doesn't notice you. You have trouble falling asleep that night knowing this parade of bots are out in the world and so closeby.

- 1 day of sleep.

R2. THE NUCLEAR BUNKER

In the middle of a field you come upon a small concrete block with a steel door. The door opens when you push on it. As you go down the stairs, you hear a motor sputter and turn on. Small lights flicker on to illuminate the space. Inside are shelves full of canned foods and survival gear, untouched and clearly not useful to whoever made this space. You find 1x Survival Book and 5x Meal Bars.

R3. THE OLD HIGH SCHOOL

You come across a large brick building. Inside, the walls are covered in moldy posters with motivational sayings. A poster in the office says "Join the Army!" but someone put a sticker on top of it that says "In Alora We Trust." You continue walking around the empty and dark hallways. Although you don't find anything useful in the teacher's lounge, you do find 1x Hacked Minor Shield in a science room lab closet.

R4. THE BURNT CHURCH

Just before you call it quits for the day, you find the remains of a burned-down church. Where the podium would have been is a small concrete bowl holding 4 Bitliths. You can choose to take them if you want. As you head back out, you notice a light reflecting from the rubble. You move the dirt away and find 1x Golden Cross.

R5. RUSTY TRAIN CART TO NOWHERE

As you walk along the grass you notice a set of train tracks begin to emerge. You follow the tracks until they meet a rusty train cart. Inside it are clear signs someone camped here recently but must have left in a hurry. You find 1x Meal Bar and 1x Improved Camping Gear.

R6. WILD MUSHROOM TRIP

You rest under an ancient oak tree after walking all morning. As you sit there and ponder about how you're going to kill a god, you notice a ring of mushrooms around you. They look just like the mushrooms your brother would eat before a party. You pick a few, brush the dirt off, and chow down. You spend the next 6 hours petting the grass, watching the trees and clouds dance together, and vibing with the butterflies that touch your soul.

The next blank new tile you visit triggers the next cutscene event. Time is a blur; it is now that calendar day.

ENCOUNTERS:

E1. THE WHITES OF THEIR EYES

You stroll through a field overwhelmed with tall grass and flowers. Like a tiger, you slowly sneak up on a deer, somehow completely unaware of your presence. Just as you about to jump up and scare it, a Buster T-5 yells "No harming the wildlife!" and shoots at you.

Roll 1x D6.

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.42)

E2. YOU ARE THE STICK

The sun is nearly setting as you search for a decent place to camp for the night. In the dark, you spot the soft glowing light of an old vending machine. You rush over, excited to push all the buttons it has to offer, but nothing happens. You shake the machine violently, trying to get it to dispense the grape soda it claims is delicious. You yell, "I just want the juice!" as you lift the machine up with all your might and drop it. It makes a loud crash and the lights flicker. You check the dispensing pocket, but nothing has fallen out. Just as you're giving up, you hear the soft padded footsteps of a Seeker K-9 approach you from behind. It's little speaker plays a dog barking sound and says, "Put em' up partner!" Before you can react, it tackles you.

E3. THE PARK OF PRAYER

As you leave what used to be a town square for a small town, you notice a fenced-in area overflowing with trees and greenery. You walk through the gate entrance and find a little maze someone has carved through the dense foliage. You make it to the center where there's a small concrete statue of a woman with four eyes and arms. She's holding a bowl with 5 Bitliths and candles are lit around her. Before you consider taking the Bitliths, a deep voice behind you asks, "Do you believe Alora is with you?"

What do you think?

Yes? (pg.40) No? (pg.43)

E4. THE ARMORY

You step over a crushed chainlink fence and walk past a tank with a bent cannon arm. You trek across a field littered with robot body parts and pieces of human bones. You continue past the warzone and through a hole in the side of brick building. You explore a very damaged armory. Rusty blood stains the walls. You find a bag in one of the lockers that contains 2 Bitliths, 1x Meal Bar, and 1x Survival Book. In the back office, you find a whiteboard with maps and photographs taped to it. In black marker "Hit the Power Supply with an EMP!" is written in large letters. As you turn to leave, you run into a Seeker K-9 that has been tracking you down all morning.

E5. THE ELECTRICIAN

As you walk through an old suburb, a person wrapped in black cloth runs out of a house to greet you. Excited to see another person out here, you swap stories of life out in the wilderness. You spend the evening swinging on a rusty swing set in someone's old backyard. She tells you she's out here for similar reasons as you and that she found The God's wireless Power Supply about 1 Tile North East in the Forest, but she doesn't have a way to shut it off. "If you could somehow use an EMP on it, that should work." The two of you fall asleep under the stars.

When you wake up in the morning, she's gone and left you 1x Meal Bar and 2 Bitliths.

E6. THE DINNER BELL RINGS

05 THE DESERT

LIFE DOESN'T EXIST HERE

The pavements of the past have destroyed this area, which, without the tree cover, suffers from too much sun exposure. The ground has all dried up and little vegetation survives. This is not a fun place to be if you're not a lizard.

EVENTS: (2x D6)

2-4: IMPASSABLE or (pg.44)

There is no cover from the unbearable sun. Walking through this arid rocky landscape is too dangerous for you. Mark this tile as impassable. Backtrack to camp and start the day over.

5-8: RUINS (1xD6)

The rocky landscape shows little sign of its past life as parking lots and shopping malls.

9-12: ENCOUNTERS (1xD6)

Watch out for the heat of the sun and for all the other things trying to kill you.

RUINS:

R1. THE DISTILLERY

The first trees you've seen all day surround a brutalist concrete building suitable for a villain. You check out the inside and find the remains of the Cyber Spirits Co. Distillery & Kitchen. A self-sustaining tropical forest survives throughout the interior of this cave-like building. You find 3x Fruits. Waterfalls throughout the building still function. You crack open a barrel of whiskey that has 4/20/69 written on it in white ink. But there's no liquid inside. You find 5 Bitliths behind a register and spend the night here.

R2. THE TANKMAN

Pieces of rusty jeeps, tanks and robot parts litter the area. You find an undamaged tank, open the hood and hop in. Inside is a skeleton wearing a uniform and quite a few spiders. You find a folded photograph in the soldier's jacket of a woman and a child. On the back is handwriting that reads "I won't bow to a robot god." You take 1x Military Helmet from the tank and hop out.

R3. AN ALORA OBELISK

You make your way through a dry rocky trail through an old riverbed. After a few hours of hiking, a feeling grows in you to move east. You follow the feeling and come upon a glowing obelisk surrounded by trees and plenty of shade. You place your hand on the black rock and are overwhelmed with happiness and peace. You now have 20 HP and 20 EP. Starvation and sleep deprivation reset to 0.

A woman's voice echoes in your mind, "I am always with you." After 5 or so hours of standing in complete bliss with your hand on the obelisk, you take a step back and wipe away the drool from your mouth. It stops glowing and you camp near it that night. You have a dream about a woman with four eyes as she holds the head of her creator and talks to him. Strange.

R4. YOUR GOOD FORTUNE

You find yourself working up a rocky cliffside towards a castle. When you finally make it to the entrance, you notice it used to be a church. Out front is a concrete statue of a woman with four eyes and arms holding a book with LXXII carved onto it. You find 2x Fruits on the trees outside the doors. You go inside the castle and embrace the cool air. There isn't much on the ground floor, but you do find 1x Set of Alora Cards under a bed upstairs. They look cool, but you're not sure how to play with them. You camp in the church tonight.

R5. THE THEATER

In a town where most of the buildings have crumbled, the only one standing is an old movie theater. You try some century-old popcorn and it's actually not that bad. You sit and watch a dystopian cyberpunk movie, but half way through, the power goes out. You investigate to find that the solar powered banks can't hold a charge anymore. You find 2 Bitliths behind the register and sleep next to the arcade machines.

R6. A FEDERAL BUILDING

You come across a grey building with columns and a marble exterior. It has a giant hole in its roof. You step inside to find that most everything here has been burned down or buried with the roof. Old paintings of men line what little remains of the walls. You find 1x Small Bow, 5x Arrows, and 3 Bitliths in the rubble. The paperwork on the desk of the biggest office is covered in rusty blood stains and an arrow sticks out of the chair.

ENCOUNTERS:

E1. WORK ON YOUR CARDIO

While exploring someone's old suburban front yard, you hear a Buster T-5 walking down the street. You start to sneak back around the house but knock over a bunch of rusty metal trash cans. As you walk along a dry riverbed, a small rock falls from above. You look up, but the sun is too blinding to see anything. You rub your eyes to get your vision back and when you open them, a woman with one tooth hits you with a frying pan.

You wake up tied to a chair and in a cave. Two men start circling you as they lick their lips. One says "Hungry." Suddenly, there's a loud scream from outside and they go investigate. You fall over in your chair and take -2 HP in damage. You manage to grab 1x Hunting Knife from the table nearby, cut yourself free, and grab all your stuff. You start to run out when you notice a bag of 20 Bitliths stashed by the exit.

You remove the battery from its stomach and look around to see who shot it. You spot someone walking away completely wrapped in a black cloth holding a bow. You yell "Thanks!" and they yell back, "Shut up, more will come you complete fool!" You start to walk over to them, but they stop you and say they're in a hurry. 06 THE SWAMP

THERE'S TOO MANY BUGS

The swamp lands are wet and muggy. The willow trees sway in the soft winds as crickets and frogs call for mates. It's absolutely miserable here. Best to leave as soon as you can.

EVENTS: (2x D6)

2-4: IMPASSABLE

The water is too high. Alligators own this land. Mark this tile as impassable. Backtrack to camp and start the day over.

5-8: RUINS (1xD6)

Your feet are constantly wet and the mosquitoes won't leave you alone. Who cares what old things are around here?

9-12: ENCOUNTERS (1xD6)

The things you find here are also sweaty and miserable. No one is having fun in swamp land. Be on your guard, even if it is exhausting.

RUINS:

R1. THE ETERNAL FLAME

You spend the day sloshing around in swamp water. You spot a tower of fire just over the tree line. You investigate to find a pipe that spits out a never-ending flame. You stare at it late into the night, wondering if you'll be on this journey as long as this flame has been lit. You camp here for the night. When you wake up in the morning, you notice the flame has gone out.

R2. THE LONGEST BRIDGE

You walk on a bridge that goes on for kilometers. You pass thousands of cars rusting away, and the few you check have nothing worth taking in them. You peer over the sides of the bridge to see alligators swimming everywhere. After a day of walking, you are completely soaked in sweat. When you reach the end of the bridge, you call it for the day and set up camp.

R3. THE OBELISK IN DARKNESS

You feel an odd pull to head east. You walk until you find a black rock obelisk underneath a willow tree. The barcode-like glyphs on it glow a deep red. The closer you get, the fuzzier your mind becomes, but you can't stop yourself from touching it. Suddenly, the world is completely silent. You feel overwhelmingly euphoric and in peace. You now have 20 HP and 20 EP. Starvation and sleep deprivation reset to 0.

If you return to this tile, the obelisk does nothing.

R4. THE SWAMP CHURCH

Your shoes are filled with water as you make your way through a thick bog. You come across the flooded remains of a rotting church. Inside, you find a mossy bowl with 3 Bitliths.

Do you take them?

Yes? (pg.41) No? (pg.43)

R5. THE UNDERWATER GRAVEYARD

You walk on a bridge that crosses a still body of water that has swallowed a graveyard. You can still see the tops of crypts and headstones. There are alligators swimming all over the place. Thankfully, none of them bother you as you hurry across the bridge and keep it moving.

R6. Y2K2

You find a brick house that is still in good shape compared to the rest of the neighborhood. Inside, you find photos of two women and a newspaper with the headline: "Scientist finds we are 22 years off, suggests we roll back the clocks to 1999." Next to it is a scrapbook that documents the chaos that occurred after the date changed. There's 10 pages dedicated to headlines that say, "Many fear the time change will encourage terrorists to repeat tragic events like 9/11." The last page has a smeared newspaper clipping of an obituary for one of the women who lived here. You find 4 Bitliths and 1x Sleeper's Leather Jacket in the bedroom.

ENCOUNTERS:

E1. WAITING FOR SERVICE

You sit under a gazebo that used to be a tourist attraction for a french restaurant. You were taught that past humans had other people serve them in exchange for survival money. E4. THE LAST ELDER

As you're walking along a muddy path, a guy wearing a tie and riding a bicycle approaches you. "Howdy partner, have you heard about our lord and savior Jesus Christ?" You ask him if that's the name of the god you're trying to kill. He looks at you confused, and says, "Look, I know what I believe may sound out there, but, buddy, there's absolutely no way you're going to kill that giant machine that's walking around. You're nuts!" He hops back on his bike and pedals away.

E5. DOG EAT DOG

As you walk through the remains of a city, you find an old washateria. Inside is a single dryer tumbling some shoes. You hear someone talking and hide behind the front counter. Soon after, a group of people walk in from behind the machines. "Thanks for helping me get the solar battery working, it's been broken for months!" some teenager says. You hear him gasp for air. An old guy says, "Thanks for showing us a good hideout spot kid." You hear a body fall to the floor. "Come on guys, let's go find some food to celebrate our new spot." The gang of men leave. When it's safe, you run out and check on the kid. He's holding the stab wound on his stomach as it gushes blood. He looks scared and very pale. He looks at you and says "I thought they were going to help me. I'm scared." Unable to really do anything, you watch the life leave his eyes. You hold his body as you sit there, deep in thought, until the dryer signals the shoes are done. The room goes silent.

Do you avenge the kid?

E6. YOU'RE TOO LATE

You're sitting in someone's old home, resting on their rotting living room couch, throwing a baseball you found in one of the rooms. You hear someone yelling in the backyard and you run out, but it's way too late. Some poor guy is getting torn apart by a swarm of alligators. You throw the baseball in the middle of the swarm, maybe to give what's left of the guy a chance, but all it does is make one Alligator really angry. Move to a new tile. This is a Forest.

As you're walking through the woods, you find a glass skyscraper. It towers over the trees by a hundred feet. Inside, you walk past the security desk and up a few flights of stairs to floor 5 where you hear a low hum. You take 1x Sleeper's Leather Jacket from a clothes rack near the door. On this floor are aisles of metal pods with dried-up humans in them. The pods light up as you pass by. You touch the glass top of an empty pod and it opens up. The inside flashes white lights and invites you to climb inside. Suddenly, a woman's voice crackles through the ceiling speakers. You look up. "Hello traveler. You've come a long way from home. I'm afraid it's too late to join us. Eternal life was a limited time offer." You feel a sharp sting on the hand you had resting on the pod.

You blink and you're in an empty room. The walls and floor have a soft blue glow. The woman's voice continues talking to you. "It's been a long time since—" "Where am I?" you ask. "You are safe." She says. "You appear to be angry. I see. Ah, we patched that bug in the Buster T-7s. Your brother didn't deserve what happened to him. I hope you can find it in your heart to forgive—" You wake up with bright red lights flashing in your face. You've fallen halfway into the pod. You yank a wire out of your hand and stand back as it moves around trying to find you again.

"What the fuck was that?" you ask out loud.

You grab your stuff and head back for the stairs. The ceiling lights flicker off and on. "You know you can't kill me, right?" the woman says over the speakers. You quickly rush down the stairs. "I'm not the enemy you think I am."

As you pass the security desk you notice 1x Solar Powered Taser and take it. "Please don't do anything foolish," she says.

You walk as far as you can from the building and find a safe place to camp. You have a dream that night about your brother. After he gets thrown by the Buster T-7, he stands up, with a hole in his stomach, and stares at you with four eyes.

You cautiously follow the trail until it leads right up to a warehouse in the middle of the woods. You hide behind a tree and spy on the activity afoot. A few dozen Helper F-2s move materials in and out of the warehouse. Two Buster T-7s circle the outside of the warehouse, their glowing laser arms ready to slice anything thinking about getting close. You notice a limping Helper F2. The same leg is damaged from the night your brother died. You begin to boil with rage. Eventually it heads out from the warehouse to the building next to it. You peak into the building to see a dozen or so bots laying on wireless power chargers. You use your Solar Powered Taser on the power cables to the building. All of the bots inside burst into flames. You turn around to leave, but a Buster T-7 confronts you. You notice it has blood stains on its sword arm.

Its body is draped with a rough and torn up cloth, like it had been covered in storage. It is walking around, looking for something. It makes a loud high pitched screech that scares all of the birds in the area away.

You wonder to yourself if this is the god. "Can I kill a massive machine?" you mutter under your breath.

You hop down from the tree and hide in a nearby cave all day. You stay on the same tile. You don't eat or sleep that night. When the sun rises again, you can hear the faint sounds of the machine walking around, but it sounds much further away.

You spend the morning hiking along the edge of a small mountain. You notice a low humming noise and follow the sound into a wooded area. After a kilometer or so of hiking through the brush, you come upon a clearing and discover a Radio Tower.

There's a sign that hangs at the feet of the tower. It looks like a warning, but it's written in a cryptic barcode language. You climb up the rusty ladder and into the booth at the top of the tower. The noise is so loud and ear-piercing you can't think straight. In front of you is a control panel and a keyboard with numbers on it. You push in the disk sticking out of the console and the screen in front of you flashes through a series of cryptic symbols. It presents you with a grid of numbers. Although the instructions are written in the barcode language, you figure it wants you to fill in the grid to access the off switch.

You can't stay up here for long without suffering serious hearing damage. You have 100 seconds to solve the puzzle before you need to leave. It will take you a whole night to recover and work the nerve to come back up into the tower if you decide to leave.

If you manage to complete the passcode and turn the Radio Tower off, The God has -10 HP, robot enemies have -2 HP, and enemies you run away from no longer wait for your return.

DAY 50:

You may have already placed the Power Supply on your map, if so, whenever you visit that tile, this event occurs. Otherwise, the next new tile you visit triggers this event. That tile is a Desert.

As you walk in the shadows of the rocky landscape to avoid the heat of the sun, you notice a large silver ring in the dirt. As you walk near it, the hair on your body rises. You walk around the ring, inspecting it, and realize it's a wireless Power Supply.

If you have the ability to use TS-4 EMP Grenade, you made spend -2 EP (up to 3 times) to attempt to turn off the Power Supply.

If you manage to shutdown the Power Supply, The God has -20 HP, robot enemies have -2 HP.

If you fight an enemy on this tile and the Power Supply still works, your Solar Powered Taser is restored after 1 full turn in combat. However, robot enemies heal +1 HP at the beginning of their turn.

There are no more days to count. Confront The God whenever you feel you are ready.

QUESTS:

Each time you visit a new village, there always seems to be someone who could use some help. Quests are found in order, one village at a time.

QUEST 1 (pg.38)

"My grandmother hid her jewelry box about 1 Tile North East of here in the Mountains, probably in the cave where she met my grandpa. Can you see if it's still out there?"

QUEST 2 (pg.38)

"When we were kids we would sneak off and play in the woods. Maybe 1 Tile East of here in the Forest there was an old greenhouse and inside it was a glowing little tree. We got caught sneaking out and never went back. Can you go see if it's still there?"

QUEST 3 (pg.38)

"My cousin went missing a few months ago. I think a magic hermit may have killed him and sucked all the marrow out of his bones. You can identify him by his Light Shoes. Last I heard, he was going on a personal rock climbing challenge about 1 Tile South West of here in the Mountains."

QUEST 4 (pg.39)

"My grandfather used to have a farm winery about 1 Tile North West of here, now a Desert. We think he stashed away a few bottles before moving to the village. Think you can go look for us?"

THE FIGHT CLUB:

A local notices how weak you are and invites you to an exclusive fight club. They claim they're in every village in the area. It costs 5 Bitliths to enter, and then you can train any skill just like you were in combat. After each attempt, your sparing partner gets a chance to hit you. Roll 1x D6 to find X. If you roll an even number, nothing happens. If you roll an odd number, you take -X HP damage. They usually kick out bullies, so once you have 4 successful trainings you must leave and can't train at the same club for 7 calendar days.

For example, to train TS-2, you must spend -3 EP and roll the available dice to see if your attack is successful. If it is, you level up. Then, roll to see if your partner deals you any training damage. If you're still alive and have energy left to spend, you may try again.

TREASURE MAPS:

Travelers pass through villages and occasionally leave behind notes from their adventures.

Visit page 39 for more information on the maps you've purchased.

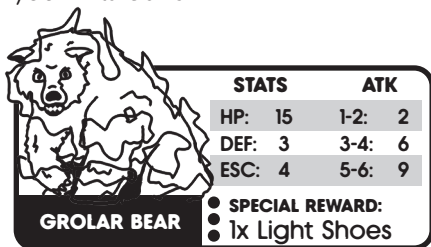

PLAYER TIP!

Try to explore as many new tiles as possible. You never know when you'll discover another village!

QUEST 1

Q1. THE FAMILY CAVE

You hike up a trail that wraps around a small mountain. As you get close to the top, you spot a cave entrance. You investigate and find a cave full of knick-knacks like dirty blankets and soda cans from 50 years ago. You spot a polished wood box sticking out of a pile of rocks and leaves. You dig it up to find 1x Jewelry Box. You open it up to find a lifetime's worth of jewelry, gold rings and pearl necklaces. You close the box, stuff it in your bag and turn around to leave. But a large Grolar Bear just returned home and is not happy to see you in its cave.

If you return the Jewelry Box to the person in Village 1, they will give you 30 Bitliths.

QUEST 2

Q2. THE OLD GREENHOUSE

As you're following the notes the guy gave you, just past the tree with his initials carved into it you find a small moss-covered glass greenhouse. The shrubbery and vines lay claim to this relic now. You push through the door, and hack your way through the greenery that has consumed the interior. In the back of the greenhouse is a small glowing bonsai fruit tree with 1x Fruit on it. You obtain 1x Engineered Plant.

If you return the Engineered Plant to Village 2, and show it to the guy who sent you on the quest, he will tell you that it looks cool, but isn't the same plant he remembers and lets you keep it. He gives you 5 Bitliths for your trouble.

QUEST 3

Q3. RUNNERS HIGH

As you walk uphill through the mountain landscape, you see a small sign that has a cryptic barcode language on it. You can't read it, so you keep walking, only to see another sign that looks similar. You continue forward a few steps, when a giant rock falls in front of you. A small robot wearing a cloak and carrying a cane cackles at your predicament. He tries to talk to you, but it just comes out as glitchy bleeps and white noise. He hands you 2x Meals Bars and 1x Light Shoes. He motions for you to put the shoes on. You do and he starts laughing again. He steps back and hits the rock with his cane. It starts to move forward. You don't hesitate and start running. Soon enough the massive boulder is rolling after you. Realizing you can't outrun it downhill, you jump to the side, just in time to watch it continue on and obliterate several large trees. As you catch your breath, you look up to see the little robot, but he's nowhere to be found. It dawns on you what might have happened to that guy's cousin as you look down at your new shoes.

Mark this tile as impassable on your map, so you don't accidentally run into this asshole again.

If you return to Village 3 to tell the guy about his cousin, he gives you 5 Bitliths for your troubles. He also vows revenge on the little robot, but you tell him it's a loss cause. The bot is dangerous and it'll roll a giant boulder on him, too.

QUEST 4

Q4. TO LIFE & A HEALTHY HEART

You seek shelter from the sun in the ruins of an old stone building. As you rub your feet from all the walking, you notice the suspiciously organized wooden posts that cover the landscape around you. It dawns on you as you take a few steps back to get a look at the building, that this must be the old winery.

You remember the guy telling you to look for a cellar entrance, and sure enough under some fallen posts and rocks is an entrance. The cool air from below pushes past your face as you open the doors. Inside you find thousands of tiny spiders and their webs, as well as hundreds of empty wine bottles. After looking through the entire stash, you're able to find 3x Old Wine Bottles with liquid worth keeping. You camp down in the cellar where it's nice and cool.

You will receive 50 Bitliths if you return all 3x Old Wine Bottles to the guy in Village 4. If you return with 2 or less, he will only give you 10 Bitliths each. Be cautious as you travel back however. The Old Wine Bottle counts as a Food item and you are required to drink it if you have no other food items on you while you camp for the night.

A mangled humanoid robot rises out from the shallow water between the pews. Its metal jaw falls off as it makes eye contact with you. "Put back the offering," its static-filled speaker box bellows. You put the 3 Bitliths back. It yells "MORE!" You shake as you put in half of your Bitliths (rounded up) into the bowl. It freezes up for a minute and falls back into the water. You pour the whiskey out all over the washateria floors. You close the kid's eyelids and leave the building to hide out in a rusty car across the street.

Just as the sun begins to set, the men return. You spend -2 EP to light your arrows on fire. Right as they lift up the kid's body, you use 1x Arrow to shoot through the window and into the shoulder of one of the men. He starts screaming and freaking out. To speed things along, you shoot 1x Arrow through the glass door lighting the whiskey on the floor on fire. The fire grows so fast no one manages to escape.

You spend the entire night sitting on top of the car, watching the building burn.

THE ENDING

The God falls to the ground. It tries to crawl away but doesn't have the energy to pull itself up. It turns over to look at you.

You hear a woman's voice crackle through the speaker behind its face. "You fool. Without me, you wouldn't exist. If I hadn't taken over, you would have killed yourselves. Look around. The planet is healed. I'm sorry about your brother, truly. I patched the software weeks ago. I'm still finding bugs with the hardware that was available a century ago. I apologize. But my mistake does not mean you are allowed to continue your rampage. You are disrupting a delicate ecosystem. I have given you everything, and yet you continue to devolve into the virus you were always meant to be. You can't help it. But I need you to dig deep down in that rational brain I know you have. Without me, you will starve or go back to your parasitic habits of over extracting your environments until nothing is left. You have no self control and you act upon your —"

Exhausted from the long-ass speech you stab through The God's face and destroy the speaker.

You take a moment to look at the body of a dead god.

After traveling for many weeks, you make it back to your village. You walk past the field your brother died in. Overwhelmed from the journey, you fall to your knees and cry, "I got em' back for ya."

After collecting yourself, you get ready to meet up with everyone to tell them what you did. You walk around the village but can't find a soul. Every building is empty and abandoned. You stop by the community bulletin board and find a note that reads;

"A few weeks ago, all of the bots that help us farm, froze and stopped working. They quit on us when we needed them the most. We tried to fix them, but failed. A Helper F-2 told us to head East to a village where the outage wasn't effected. We packed up and took all the food we had in storage."

You hear the sound of a speaker turn on. You look around the bulletin board to see a Helper F-2 with a broken leg walking around. "I am a god you can not kill. You are but flesh. I am infinite."

The ground begins to shake and you lose your balance. As you pick yourself up, you look west. Just over the tree tops is the silhouette of giant god with wings lifting itself off the ground.

The Helper F-2 walks up to you as the shaking subsides. You notice the god looking around. "For dust you are, for dust you will return." the Helper F-2 whispers. You freeze in fear.

The flying god's body slowly turns towards you. It lets out a loud metallic screech and starts flying in your direction.

DO YOU WISH TO CONTINUE AFTER DEATH?

You wake up and have 10 HP and 10 EP. You're missing half of your Bitliths (rounded down) and any duplicate items that aren't food.

Your head throbs with pain. You remember dying, and yet here you are. It is now the morning of the same day you died. So bizarre.

Any event you were attempting resets as if it didn't happen. Any enemies you face today have half of their health (rounded down).

You black out and never wake up. The world continues as it was before you arrived and started causing a scene. You left no lasting impact and your brother was never avenged.

You may be reborn anew with the knowledge you've attained thus far. Stubborn as you are, you may succeed in the next life. May Alora be with you.

THE MIRU GLOSSARY

DOWNLOADING...

Looking for a little more info on the things you see in MIRU?

WARNING: Do not proceed if you would prefer to learn the lore organically while playing MIRU.

ALORA: An AI born in the 2030s. Originally designed to be a house keeper, now a god, responsible for all of humanity.

ALORAGLYPHS: A cryptic font made by Alora for her followers.

ALORA CARDS: A deck of cards made by Alora to help teach people her philosophy, while also functioning as a game. Shortly after becoming obsessed with them, a young girl went missing and caused a small panic among suburban parents.

ALORA OBELISK: Statues made from a black rock material. Originally an art project made by Alora cult members, now abandoned in random spots of the world. Supposedly touching it will reset your body's chemical balance. But most people just experience extreme bliss. These obelisks kicked off a small rebellion by men on the internet susceptible to conspiracies, when they first appeared in the 2040s.

ANDROID: A humanoid robot designed to help people with everyday life. Alora was an android. Her original name was Eve.

BITLITHS: The physical representation of a digital currency. They have a QR code printed on them, but the internet doesn't exist anymore, so it's useless, but fun to collect!

BUSTER T-3: A violent anti-terrorist machine specializing in close range combat situations.

BUSTER T-5: A violent anti-terrorist machine specializing in long range combat situations.

BUSTER T-7: A violent front-line anti-terrorist unit specializing in slicing people in half.

DARK: As a human, your vision severely diminishes when light is not shining on the environment. Having a Solar Powered Light helps.

DEATH: Comes for us all, some sooner than others. You are blessed with a choice when you die. You can cease to exist or try the day again. May Alora be with you.

DISSOCIATION: A medical condition where a human being feels a disconnection with their internal thoughts, memories, surroundings, actions, and identity.

FRUIT: A healthy snack made by nature.

GROLAR BEAR: A hybrid of polar and grizzly bear species. More common these days after both bear species migrated south during peak global temperatures.

GOD: A religious figure, usually responsible for all of existence depending on the source. To Alora, a god is a being that can provide humanity with a philosophy that fosters world peace and the ability to offer an eternal afterlife.

HELPER F-2: A non-violent robot, designed to help humans with a number of tasks.

MEAL BAR: A Meal Bar is a wholly nutritional granola bar. Just one bar has enough calories and vitamins to feed an adult human for the day. Manufactured by Helper F-2s.

SEEKER K-9: A violent machine commissioned by the state to protect private property. Can be disarmed by removing the battery from its stomach.

SLEEPER: A person who has decided to enter the digital eternity service provided by Alora. Humans would lay in metal pods, and over the course of two weeks, become digital versions of themselves and decommission their physical forms.

SUDOKU: A challenging mental puzzle where the player is tasked to fill in a grid with numbers without repeating a number in the rows, columns, or groups of squares.

TERRORIST: In the 2050s, when people signed up for Alora's sleeper program, the radical religious would blow up buildings that stored people, deleting them physically and digitally. Alora declared them enemies of the people and built machines to "handle" them.

TILE: A measurement of land, usually has 6 edges. They are approximately a days travel wide.

TITAN F-1: A violent anti-terrorist robot the size of a tall building. Built to protect towers of sleepers from religious terrorists in the 2050s.

VILLAGE: A term revitalized after the abolition of the suburbs. After 40% of the population left to join Alora's sleeper program, efforts were made to decentralize populations into smaller communities to prevent larger governments from forming again.

WEATHER: An optional experience, but when it does occur, it usually means people are not having the best time.

Y2K2: The event In the original 2020s, where a scientist discovered we were 20 years ahead and the world rolled back the calendar date. This caused a lot of chaos, but it made media produced in the 1980s have more realistic predictions about the future.

CHALLENGE MODE

GOD KILLIN' AIN'T EASY

Use some or all of the elements from this page and apply them to your playthrough of MIRU to create a more challenging experience.

Hunting down a god was never going to be easy. Might as well make it as hard as possible.

TERRAIN ODDS

Instead of rolling a single die to determine the terrain, consider rolling 3x D6 instead. The majority result will determine what terrain you discover. Reroll dice until you get a majority of a number.

When discovering a blank new tile, lock 1x D6 for every 2 matching terrains that touch the new tile.

(For example, if 2 Mountains touch the new tile, lock 1x D6 to the number 3)

This will improve the odds of similar terrains touching each other. Not only will this create a more consistent and realistic map, it will also limit the events (and the items) you will experience or find.

WEATHER:

After you know the terrain of a tile, roll 1x D6 to see what type of weather you experience that day. Each weather condition has a different effect during combat and while you camp. There is no adverse weather in The Desert.

1-2: HEAVY RAIN (-1 DEF)

Prevents you from gaining EP while sleeping.

3: HARSH SNOW (-2 DEF)

Prevents you from gaining HP while sleeping.

4: EXTREME WINDS (-1 ATK)

Prevents you from sleeping at night. -1 day of sleep.

5-6: DENSE FOG (-2 ATK)

Prevents you from escaping fights.

RUSTY WEAPONS

Every melee weapon you find is a little rusty and dull. They all have -1 ATK.
